

Dynamic knowledge hub dedicated to cleantech

Denmark is home to 46 world class knowledge institutions producing valuable cleantech research, ensuring your company the optimal location to keep abreast of new technology. The most important of these institutions are described below.

RISØ – NATIONAL LABORATORY FOR SUSTAINABLE ENERGY

Risø-DTU is one of the most prestigious research institutes in the world. Risø undertakes highly-specialised research in the fields of renewable energy, biofuel, electrical vehicles, 'smart grid', energy technology, energy planning, energy systems of the future, etc.

www.risoe.dtu.dk

THE UNIVERSITY OF COPENHAGEN

The University of Copenhagen is the highest-ranked university in Scandinavia according to the 2008 Academic Ranking of World Universities. The university undertakes climate research within: Earth System Science, global warming and agriculture, and environmental and food safety, among others.

www.ku.dk

DTU

DTU is the Technical University of Denmark. The university has a unique role as a specialised, modern technical university and attracts more than 700 international students every year. The university not only provides education, research and innovation at a high international level in the fields of water, biomass, wind, etc. but it also strives to build sustainable bridges between academia and industry. DTU has been ranked number five on the respected and scientific Leiden Ranking of the 100 largest European universities in 2008.

www.dtu.dk

UNIVERSITY OF ROSKILDE (RUC)

University of Roskilde was established with the objective of providing research and education at the highest level in the fields of natural science, social science and the humanities. Among its specialities RUC undertakes significant research in algae for biofuels, in collaboration with the Municipality of Lolland. RUC also houses the incubation institute, CAT Science.

www.ruc.dk

COPENHAGEN BUSINESS SCHOOL (CBS)

Copenhagen Business School is one of the three largest business schools in Europe. In 2009, it launched the CBS 'Climate Strategies for Business' initiative to produce valuable research and business students in order to meet the climate challenge.

www.cbs.dk